

test-drive

Bath Mats

Keep your toes toasty and your valued bathroom floors reassuringly dry!

A great eco-option

Bamboo bath mat

£15, Biome Lifestyle

With its eco-friendly properties and stylish good looks, bamboo is hot news this season, so this neat bath mat is a sound investment for those who shop with a conscience but still want their interiors bang-on trend. Made in India by the survivors of a disastrous gas leakage in 1988 and shipped by sea to the UK, this piece ticks all the right boxes for all the right reasons and also fulfils its brief, which is to keep nasty wet feet from spoiling nice dry bathroom floors!

[w] www.biomelifestyle.com

[t] 0870 043 4778

Go a little daisy crazy!

Daisy bath mat

£24.50, Wheredidyoubuythat.com

Bring a little of the outdoors in, with this vibrant daisy print bath mat that instantly gives the bathroom a fresh new look. Thin and light, it rolls up when not in use to save on storage, and has a mildew-resistant finish to protect against constant damp caused by condensation and soggy feet. It's non-slip so it's perfect for children or those with clumsy tendencies; but to avoid scary décor disasters, be careful not to throw it in with too many other colours.

[w] www.wheredidyoubuythat.com

[t] 0870 609 2648

Such vibrant colours here!

Missoni Home parma bath mat

£66, Amara.co.uk

Have you ever seen quite such a colourful bath mat? Nope, didn't think so, which is why this bold floral design from sought-after brand Missoni Home is such a must-have for this season. In soft thick 100% cotton for great absorption, quick drying and easy to wash, it's the perfect touch of luxury for your en-suite or private bathroom, where its gorgeous greens can't help but brighten up your morning. You'll have justified the financial outlay in no time!

[w] www.amara.co.uk

[t] 01376 321100

Real quality - a teak treat...

Teak bath mat

£39, Habitat

This slatted duckboard in solid teak doesn't catch every drip of water, so it isn't the ideal companion for a carpeted bathroom. But as a protective layer between wet feet and a floor in laminate, vinyl, tile or rubber, it's one of the most stylish and practical designs we found. Working well in either traditional or modern spaces, it looks great left on the floor even when not in use and requires no washing or drying. A fantastic buy for busy bathrooms!

[w] www.habitat.net

[t] 0844 499 1111